reference in your purchase of business men whose names you see in this paper. They are usually the best of the kind; and the fact that they are usually the best of the kind is a fact that they are usually the best of the kind.

week the Roman corset was in great danger. This week they are pleased to believe there was no reason for the starting rumors. It seems the only ground for them was the fact that the cracks had been discovered in the Sistine Chapel.

Eugene V. Debs, for whom the workingmen of this country had much respect, has developed into a blatant Socialist. His advocacy of bloodshed in the case of the miners imprisoned in Idaho makes plain his disregard for all law and stamps him as one not to be trusted. Debs will never again be on the firing line in the American labor movement.

Tuesday the magazine Men and Women was thrown into the hands of a receiver before United States Thompson at Cincinnati. The proceedings were instituted by various Ohio creditors, and are the culmination of troubles covering a period of several months. Steps are being taken looking to a reorganization of the company, and it is believed the publication will be continued.

The streets of Louisville are in an awful condition. There are many squares so torn up that it would be impossible for the fire department to do anything to prevent a disastrous conflagration. It is not known by whose authority these streets were placed in this condition, but all are of the opinion that it would be wise for Mayor Barth to return home and assume charge of city affairs.

Though the charges may be exaggerated, it is up to the city officials to make a thorough investigation as to affairs at the City Hospital. This institution costs the people a large amount of money, that is paid for the poor unfortunates who enter therein. For some years there have been charges of malfeasance and misfeasance, and it is high time that there was an investigation that would investigate. The public now wants to know what kind of an institution it is conducting.

CATHOLIC PAPER IN HOME.

We are told that the home is a training institution of infinite importance because the education it bestows, being woven with the thread of childhood, gives form and permanency to the texture of life. There are many of us who have not received the honors of a college or university, but we are all graduates of the hearth, and the simple lessons received at home of devotion to our faith and the value and necessity of principle and honor will defy the rust of years and outlive the more mature knowledge received in after life. Thus writes James T. Sinnott in the Standard and Times. It is in this home education that the Catholic papers of today should be permitted to play an important part. Entering the home weekly, laden with a wealth of instruction and valuable information, containing sermons of inspiration and lessons of self-sacrifice and heroic devotion to our holy religion, educating, as it were, our young men and women in the knowledge of all that is good and pure, such is the work that is being accomplished by the Catholic paper of today. And yet unfortunately many Catholic homes there are into which no Catholic paper enters, but in which can be found "the yellow journal" filled with the latest divorce proceedings and scandals of life. Such is the mental food many parents permit their children to feast upon and which produces incalculable harm to young minds and hearts. It is believed that if every subscriber, after reading his paper, would pass it on to neighbor or friend, introduce it, as it were, into the homes of those unaccustomed to receive it, much good would result therefrom.

PUBLICITY AS A CURE OF OUR ILLS.

The Gospel injunction "to walk in the light as children of the light" is the first intimation we have that publicity is a cure for crime, writes Father Phelan in the Western Watchman. The worst sections of the great cities of Europe have been reformed by simply widening the streets and multiplying lamps. Sin is a child of darkness. But there are sins that are not afraid of material light; sins that men boast of and claim to be privileged. These are sometimes the worst and most pernicious sins. A crime against one man is punishable by fine or imprisonment; a crime against a million men is regarded as a stroke of genius. A crime that succeeds has lost half its criminality. A crime that fashion approves is not punishable at all. A woman that divorces her husband and marries a paramour is branded as a baud; when ten thousand women do it the act is no longer censured.

Of late years a remedy has been suggested for this form of crime. It is publicity. We believe it was President Roosevelt who first suggested this antidote. Cardinal Gibbons last week approved the remedy, and suggested its universal and immediate application to the ills of the State and family. We think there is a reason for commending the remedy higher than any that has thus far been advanced. We believe in trial by jury simply because we think that the opinion of twelve honest men in a matter within their competence is better than the opinion of any one man. If the jury were always thirty men instead of twelve we would be a still stronger believer in trial by jury. It is clear to see from this that we have great faith in public opinion. Philosophers and theologians regard the sensus communis of mankind as next to the authority of God most to be respected. One man may be biased. Twelve even might be swayed by reasons appealing to them individually. But it is difficult to conceive a case where all mankind would be influenced to decide against truth and right.

We believe in trial by jury because it implies patient investigation and argument. The jury is instructed upon the law and the evidence, and their verdict is made up after weighing both. Society at large, or what is called the "public," sometimes takes cognizance of crimes, and their verdict carries with it the stamp of public reason and conscience. What all the world says, does and believes must be right. But this judgement, to have its full weight, must be, like the jury of twelve, fully instructed upon the facts and the evidence. As to the facts the public press can generally be relied upon to present them fully and impartially. We hear a great deal about the Yellow Press in these days; but it sins not in suppressing facts but in distorting them. The daily papers want the facts and they print them. The public, sitting as a supreme jury, can get at the facts in public print. As to the value and import of the evidence the pulpit can be relied upon to judge them fairly. The newspapers and the preachers do for the jury of the public what the attorney does for the jury of twelve. This united function of the press and pulpit we call "publicity," and it is this that some of our wisest statesmen now rely upon to reach and remedy some of the most gigantic ills that afflict and scandalize our times.

Public opinion is the nearest approach to an infallible judgment that we have. It has always found adequate and authoritative expression in the pronouncements of the Church. The call of the verdict of public opinion, enlightened by publicity, is little short of an appeal to Rome. When the process becomes incorporated in our manners and laws we shall enjoy in a measure the blessings of a ready and satisfying solution of disputes which the world could claim when the world was Catholic and Roman. The age is getting back to the center of the Church's unity by very strange and roundabout ways.

TRANSFERRED.

The Rev. Father Charles Clever, for several years pastor of St. Mary's church at Bradford, sixteen miles northwest of New Albany, has been transferred by Bishop Chatard to the Church of the Holy Family at Oldenburg, considered one of the most important stations in the Indianapolis diocese. Father Clever has just completed many improvements and installed a new altar, and it is with regret that the people of the congregation part with him.

BON AMI DANCE.

The Bon Ami Club are now issuing invitations for their dance which takes place at Fontaine Ferry Park on the evening of August 23, in connection with their big picnic. Special attractions are also being arranged for that occasion, particulars of which will be announced later. The Committee of Arrangements are W. P. McDonough, John J. Barry, George C. Francis, Chas. S. Raidey, Albert F. Martin and Louis J. Keiffer.

SAFE AT HOME.

James J. Fitzgerald, whose many friends felt greatly alarmed when it became known that he was ill at Victor, Col., arrived home the first of the week in greatly improved condition, and they are glad to see him again able to be out. The brilliant attorney had been attending the Elks' reunion at Denver before going to Victor, where the high altitude caused his illness.

HURT BY FALL.

Mrs. John Gavin, a respected resident of New Albany, while crossing Spring street last Sunday, fell in an excavation made by a street construction gang and was painfully hurt by the fall. She was assisted to her home, 316 E. 8th street, where it was discovered that her nose was fractured and that she had sustained severe bruises.

INJURIES SERIOUS.

Dispatches from Newport, R. I., bring intelligence of the serious injury of Seaman Corbett, a well-known Frankfort boy, in the collision between the United States battleships Alabama and Illinois that occurred Monday night. His left arm was fractured and the news is that either a leg or arm was amputated, but this has not yet been certified.

HOME FOR REST.

Rev. Clarence Kearns, S. J., of Spring Hill, Ala., arrived home last week for a vacation and visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kearns, at Lebanon. He is one of the teachers at Spring Hill, and has just completed the ninth of the thirteen years of study and teaching required of members before their final ordination in the Jesuit order.

CATHOLIC BELGIUM.

Belgium is sometimes indicated as a contradiction to the dictum that Catholicism hinders the worldly prosperity of a State. It is true that it is the most closely populated country of Europe; it is in proportion to its size, the greatest grain grower in the universe; and (in spite of its size) comes next to England in its coal output, while it equals England in extent of railway lines. Its commerce is immense, its manufactures unrivaled, and the immigration still exceeds the emigration, but we prefer to point to the industrious and moral lives of the people as proof of the benefits of Catholicity rather than to these signs of material prosperity not always its concomitants.
